THIEF IS CAUGHT REMOVING GOODS FROM HIDING PLACE

Systematic Theft of Cigars Nipped by Special Officer Who Catches "Out-side Man" Taking Goods From Hiding Place.

The systematic robbery of the E. A. Robinson & Company's cigar factory which has been going on for several weeks was nipped by Special Officer Williams at about 11 o'clock Monday evening and the two principals in the robbery were arrested and now await a hearing in the city court.

As he passed the Riley, which runs just east of the Robinson Cigar factory, Monday night at about 11 o'clock Officer Williams noticed a man crouched at the side of the Robinson building and went up to him, asking him what he was doing. The man proved to be Scott Marshall, colored, and he informed the officer that he saw something in the cellar hole and was seeking what the object was. The officer took the package out and found it to be a package of cigars and cigarettes carefully wrapped.

Marshall and the package were taken to police headquarters and an investigation disclosed that Marshall was working in partnership with Theodore Jackson, also colored, who worked at the Robinson plant. Jackson would wrap several boxes of cigars and cigarettes in a package during the day and place them in the cellar window and during the night Marshall would get them from the cellar window and sell them dividing the earnings with Jackson.

Police have learned that this practice had been going on for some time and they have found several who purchased cigars and cigarettes from the colored men paying as low as seventy-five cents for a box of fifteen cent cigars.

Jackson was arrested Monday night and both men will probably be given a hearing in Police Court Wednesday afternoon.

LIQUOR EVIDENCE STOLEN FROM COURT HOUSE

Two Hundred and Fifty Cases of Bottled in Bond Whisky Is Stolen.

What happened to 250 cases of bottled in bond whisky, in custody of Spencer county officials from August 10 to Sunday night, is a question Chief Prohibition Enforcement Officer F. G. Fields and his entire force of agents were trying to find an answer to Monday.

The whisky was seized the night of August 10 by County Judge Thad Cheatham and Sheriff John Thomas, while it was being transported on two trucks from the D. L. Moore Distillery at Vanarsdell, Mercer county, toward Louisville.

Three men accompanying the trucks in a touring car were arrested and held to the Spencer county grand jury under $1,000 bond each. They were indicted and their trials were scheduled to come up at the criminal term of Spencer circuit court Monday at Taylorsville.

Chief Agent Fields received a telephone message Monday morning from Circuit Judge C. C. Marshall, before whom the cases were to be heard, saying the entire lot of whisky had been stolen Sunday night from its place of storage in the Spencer county court house.

The theft is thought to have taken place between midnight and 1 o'clock Monday morning, according to advices from Taylorsville, and it was said that six or eight touring cars were seen to leave Taylorsville shortly after 1 o'clock going in the direction of Louisville.

Mrs. Tracey Rogers, nee Bessie Coons, of New York City, formerly of this city, arrived Tuesday to be the guest of Mrs. George Barbour.

and both men will probably be given a hearing in Police Court Wednesday afternoon.

Jackson was arrested Monday night.

1921 TOBACCO FAIR IS OPENED TUESDAY; THRONGS EXPECTED

Biggest Event of the Full Season in Mason County Is Ushered In Today—Many Attend First Day's Session.

Mason county's 1921 Corn and Tobacco Fair was opened Tuesday afternoon at the Liberty Tobacco Warehouse and for the opening day there was a fine attendance.

The booth holders were just a little late getting decorated and ready for the big show but the majority of the booths were ready when the opening gong sounded. The booths this year are arranged somewhat different from past fairs and are most beautifully decorated and arranged. They are being used almost entirely for advertising purposes. Some few are selling soft drinks and other refreshments.

The first vaudville performances were scheduled for Tuesday afternoon when all four big acts booked by the Legion were to appear. They will be seen once each afternoon and once each evening during the balance of the fair and because of the high quality of the acts no one should miss them.

The first day is "Odd Fellows' Day" and because of the meeting of the Kentucky Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows in Maysville, it is expected that hundreds of the visitors will visit the fair this evening. There will be special features for the Odd Fellows at the Fair Tuesday night and plans have been made to show out-of-town visitors a big time.

The feature of Wednesday's fair will be the public sale of pullets which are donated by the Mason County Poultry Association by Mason county farmers to whom were donated settings of pure bred Rhode Island Red eggs by the Poultry Association. For each setting of eggs the farmers return to the Association one pure bred pullet for sale Wednesday and much interest is expected in this sale which will be at public auction.

Visitors from the county and from nearby counties were here Tuesday to attend the opening of the fair and with the visiting Odd Fellows in the city, they made quite a crowd on the city's streets.

There will be public dances each evening during the fair at the warehouse and on Friday evening, which is "American Legion Day", there will be the grand mask ball at which hundreds of couples are expected to be on the floor.

To eliminate poison from your system and stimulate the liver, take WALLACE'S LIVERADE. Remember every bottle guaranteed. For sale by J. J. Wood & Son.

MASONS TO INITIATE NEXT MONDAY EVENING

Because of the Odd Fellows' reception and dance given at the Masonic Temple Monday evening, Maysville Lodge No. 52 F. & A. M. postponed the conference of the Master Mason degree upon a class of two candidates until next Monday evening. A special meeting of the Blue Lodge will be called after the meeting of the Masonic Chapter on next Monday evening.

THREE BIBLE CONFERENCES HAVE BEEN ARRANGED.

Mr. Elmer T. Kirk is at home from a trip through Eastern Kentucky where he arranged for three Bible conferences similar to the one recently held in Maysville. These conferences will be held at Louisa, Paintsville and Pikeville, between December 11th and 18th.

MR. ANDERSON'S FUNERAL WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON.

The funeral of Mr. J. Elgin Anderson will be held at Dover on Wednesday afternoon, and quite a number of local friends are planning to attend. The services will be under the auspices of the Dover Lodge Knights of Pythias and burial will be in the Dover cemetery.

GRAND LODGE OFFICERS DINNER
GUESTS OF MR. AND MRS. COX.

Grand Treasurer Wm. H. Cox of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows entertained at dinner Tuesday at his home in West Second street for Grand Representatives J. Whitfield, M. M. Logan and Becketham Overstreet, present representatives to the Sovereign Grand Lodge, Past Grand Master Wm. Duncan, Past Grand Representative W. G. Simpson, Mr. Harry C. Curran, Reading Clerk of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, and Grand Secretary R. G. Elliott.

GRAND FELLOWS' BALL IS DELIGHTFUL AFFAIR.

The reception and dance given Monday evening at the Masonic Temple by the local lodges of Odd Fellows in honor of the Grand Lodge officers and delegates was a most delightful affair. There were many in attendance.

All members of the Maysville Horseshoe Band are notified to meet at the band room at 7:30 o'clock to play a concert for the Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows.

Mr. Samuel I. Ulcks, railway postal clerk, and family, have moved into the Goodman home in West Third street.

CHAMBLIN'S MOTHER AGAIN TRIES TO COMMIT SUICIDE

Murderer of Newman and Miss Doyle At Portsmouth, Will Pay Penalty of Crime in Electric Chair.

Portsmouth, Ohio, Nov. 15.—Roy Chamblin, 27 years old, who confessed to the murder of John W. Newman, 26 years old, married, shoemaker, and Miss Louise Doyle, 19 years old, church organist, in an uninhabited cottage on Scioto Trail, six miles north of this city, on the night of October 21, made no outward appearance of regret Monday when he was sentenced to die in the electric chair on February 24 next.

After his sentence Chamblin turned to one of his lawyers and coolly remarked: "Well, Frank, I guess it is all over." Just as the sentence was pronounced Mrs. Eva Easter Paris, mother of Chamblin, who was in an adjoining room, became hysterical and attempted to jump from an upstairs window, but was prevented by parties grabbing her holding her.

Taken to his cell, Chamblin lit a cigarette and buried his head in his hands.

FAIR PRICES UNCHANGED.

The statement in another local newspaper that the price of admission at the Corn and Tobacco Fair would be 15 cents to all is incorrect, the committee announces. Prices of admission will be as first announced, viz: ten cents for children, and twenty cents for adults.

HUSBAND KILLS MAN IN AUTO WITH HIS WIFE; IS ARRESTED

J. J. Whittman Shot and Killed Harry Hamman After Driving Car In Front of Hamman and Mrs. Whittman In Auto.

Hamilton, Ohio, Nov. 15.—Lou J. Wittman, 35 secretary-treasurer of the Wittman Tent and Awning Co., 337 South Second street, was held by police today, charged with the murder of Harry Hamman, 42, trader, 117 West High street, Oxford, Ohio. Hamman was slain late Monday under peculiar circumstances.

Wittman, after his arrest, refused to make any statement whatever regarding the shooting of Hamman, who died on his way to Mercy Hospital in the police ambulance. Hamman had a revolver bullet wound in his back.

Police reports say Wittman, driving an auto, turned his machine into one driven by Hamman, who was accompanied by Wittman's wife, Sarah B. Wittman, at Eighth street and Campbell avenue.

After the crash Wittman, according to police reports, got out of his car and, drawing a revolver from his pocket, fired once at Hamman, shooting him in the back.

Hamman was married and had a wife, Mrs. Ida Hamman, and four children in Oxford. Wittman has no children.

Mrs. Wittman, after the arrest of her husband, went to police headquarters and remained with him during the evening while he was being held pending investigation of the circumstances surrounding the case.

REPUBLICAN STEWARDSHIP.

There has been much partisan bickering concerning the amount of estimates for Federal expenses, the amount of appropriations made, etc. But the real test of the Republican record will be determined by the treasury reports showing actual cash spent. There can be no camouflaging that. As everybody knows, the Federal fiscal years ends June 30. The Democrats were in full charge of expenditures up to March 4, 1921, or for eight months of the year ended June 30, 1921. The Democrats had not only spent the money for eight months of the year but they had made contracts and commitments covering the whole year. The Republicans, therefore, cannot be held accountable for any of the expenditures for that year. But for the year beginning July 1, 1921, and ending June 30, 1922, the Republicans will be held accountable, except that, of course, they cannot avoid paying indebtedness incurred by the previous administration.

A national debt is binding regardless of the political party that incurred it. We have, for instance, an annual interest charge of approximately one billion dollars which the nation must pay for a number of years to come, whichever party is in power. The amount of this payment is something that the Republican party cannot be held responsible for, for it was the Democratic party that managed the business of the war. The fighting in Europe was non-partisan, but the letting of contracts, the adoption of fiscal policies, the purchase of supplies, the erection of buildings, the transportation of troops, etc., were kept closely under the control of patrism Democrats or Wilsonites of some other party affiliation. The payment of the debt or the interest on the debt, or the payment of obligations left over from the Wilson regime, cannot be charged to the present administration. That is so plain a proposition, that no one will dispute it.

What the country can, should, and will hold the Republican party responsible for is the management of the nation's business so far as it relates to normal administrative affairs. "Back to normal" was one of the Republican campaign cries, and the party can properly be held responsible for the speed with which it accomplishes that desirable result. No one could expect or did expect, that the nation would be brought back to normal in a day or a month or a year. It would be the utmost folly to disband every war agency instantly, leaving many records in a tangled mess. That is what some Democratic bureaus and commissions would like, for then it would be impossible ever to check up on their management of affairs or to ascertain how much money they spent or how they spent it. To dump the records in storage boxes with no system of filing, would be an encouragement to other administrations to conduct business in the same grossly wasteful and inefficient manner that the Democrats conducted it for eight years. One of the best guarantees of good management in the future is the demonstration that no political party can waste government funds and go unexposed and unpunished.

The fiscal year 1921-22 will end next June 30, four months before the Congressional elections. There will be plenty of time for the Democrats to inspect the record of actual expenditures for that full year of Republican control and to point out specifically the amounts of money which were spent and which they think ought not to have been spent. They will find the Republicans ready to defend that record and to compare it with the record of the preceding administration.

THE MAID OF ORLEANS.

It is peculiarly appropriate, as an expression of the close ties that bind the United States and France, that a statue of the French heroine Jeanne d'Arc, is to be erected in Washington. The statue is a replica of the famous original that has stood for many years in front of the Cathedral of Rheims. It has arrived at New York and will soon be unveiled on a commanding site in a Washington public park that overlooks the whole city. Marshall Foeh will break ground for the foundation, and in it will be placed stones from the Rheims Cathedral.

TUMMY'S COMPO.

The New York Times does not hesitate to use superlatives in announcing the publication serially of Mr. Tumulty's comments on Woodrow Wilson. "Nothing equal to this work," fervidly exclaims the Times, "has appeared in American history or biography since Nicolay and Hay's Life of Abraham Lincoln." It is a new experience for American readers to see Mr. Tumulty raised to the level of former Secretary of State Hay, and they had hoped that attempts to compare Mr. Wilson with Abraham Lincoln had subsided.

FESTERING.

Says Lord Northcliffe: "A prolongation of the alliance (Anglo-Japanese) only serves to irritate public and official opinion in the United States, merely humiliates China, and adds nothing to the prestige of Great Britain in Asia." He might have added that it invites a break between the mother country and the dominions of Canada, Australia, and New Zealand. It is to be hoped that thoughtful men of Great Britain will give prayerful consideration to the views of the London editor.

PRACTICAL VIEWS.

The Shipping Board is mailing a questionnaire to every private owner and operator of ships to ascertain the views of practical men on the various problems that confront the Board in its dealings with the merchant marine. It is simply another feature of the administration's policy of putting more business in government.

A prominent financial paper tells of large Wall Street operators patronizing lunch rooms and cafeterias instead of indulging in the more formal lunches that have hitherto been the vogue. This may be a effort to help along the movement for reduced cost of living.

UNCLE TED'S
BED-TIME STORIES.

Arms—And—Optimism.

"It seems mighty hard these days with the many big men in session at Washington for the greatest conference in the history of the world to talk of other things," said Uncle Ted, after the kiddies had managed once more, as usual, to persuade him to give them a story.

"I would like to tell you a story about a hunting trip I just took into the deep woods, but I'm afraid that wouldn't tell you very much you don't already know. If I remember correctly, I have told you before how deeply I was impressed when I was in Washington with the sincerity of the men who are there to accomplish something toward that seemingly impossible goal of peace. I can't help but feel that there is little else important today than to get behind our president and boost him in this great effort. He has no doubts but that the conference will succeed—succeed to the point of cutting down the terrible display of armament with its natural attendant cost and heavy taxation upon the people of the several countries of the world. Many newspapers and magazines throughout the United States (and I imagine the world for that matter) have and are taking a pessimistic attitude toward the whole affair. Where they get that idea I cannot see."

"One of the biggest delegates to this meeting and a representative of a mighty important country is Lord Lee of Fareham, head of the British admiralty. When he landed in this country and was asked what he thought the chances were of the conference ending in a failure he said he was certainly not prepared even to consider the possibilities of failure. He explained that to admit failure would be to say that the world was crazy with the idea of war and could never get over it."

"But, Uncle Ted," said Jaek, "you have said there will always be wars."

"I said, Jack, and still say, that so long gas human beings are human and constituted as they are today, so that individuals quarrel with one another, then nations are bound to have differences. I do not believe that it is possible, and certainly not now, to get the countries of the world to disarm. That is not, in fact, the idea. If the meeting in Washington results in CUTTING DOWN the terrible outlay for arms, it has taken the biggest step in the history of the world toward world peace."

"Then have you looked at it this way. No matter what we think of certain countries, the people are more or less alike. The majority want no war and are anxious and even demand that something be done to help the situation. Right in Washington today is a 90 year old Japanese woman who has traveled the thousands of miles from her country with a petition signed by thousands of Japanese women urging that something be done to lessen the chance of their sons being butchered on the fields of battle. And so it is in every country represented at the meeting. The delegates will not dare return to their homes and report failure. They must succeed and the weight of what is expected at home will have a big effect and solve many a tangle that even the strict rules of diplomacy would fail to solve."

"Since I talked to you last, President Harding named an advisory committee to assist the four American delegates. The meeting is now under way and the members are getting

by Lucy Jeanne Price

New York—Who says college spirit does not survive through the years? Chauncey H. Pember was a swagger Sophomore 42 years ago at Yale. Even then they wore trick hats, went in for college pennants, and had fraternities. Mr. Pember boasted of his jeweled pin with all the rest, and then lost it. This particular one was not lost to some fair ladies basque, but disappeared on the Yale Campus during a baseball game. A few days ago in Harlem, the pin was picked up in front of a moving picture house, the initials, C. H. P. and Yale, Class of '82, faintly visible after the years of wear. The finder communicated with the Registrar at Yale, and through the initials, the owner was traced. Mr. Pember is now wearing the pin, prouder than ever, and while he disclaims any sojourn in Harlem it will always be hallowed ground from now on.

New York has seen the Deutschland again — but or how different. The former "Queen of the Seas" is now known as The Hansa, and there was not a ripple of excitement over her appearance in strange contrast to her trips of some years ago. She yet has a claim to fame in that she is equipped with an automatic steering gear which will guide her in all weather under all circumstances without helmsmen. Her mystery in disappearing is no longer important; the question now is, how does she go at all.

—NY—

The box holders list of the Metropolitan has been announced and the vis-a-vis have their heads together drowsing out the social significance of the new requirements. People who have not appeared before — and the hint is that their money has come to them suddenly and are therefore not important people who have gone from the "parties" into box holdings, others who have dropped out because of mourning, all make the bid for an envied place in the Four Hundred. As the yest at the operas so you shall know them, is the social cry. The town is now agog for the opening performance, when it is rumored the same

Government Will Distribute Seventy-Five Million Dollars Among States For Road Construction.

Washington, D. C. — Seventy-five million dollars becomes available as Federal aid for road construction in the various states, the money to be spent under the supervision of the Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Agriculture, under the Federal Highway Act, signed November 9 by the President. In addition, $15,000,000 is apportioned for national forest roads. The $75,000,000 represents the Federal Government's appropriation to the work of building highways in the various states and must be matched, dollar for dollar, by funds from the state treasuries, except in states where more than 5 per cent. of the area is unappropriated public land.

The $75,000,000 appropriated is for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and $25,000,000 of the sum is available immediately, the balance becoming available on January 1, 1922. Among the apportionment in the 48 states, Kentucky receives $1,417,178.68.

Of the appropriation of $15,000,000 for the improvement of national forest roads $5,000,000 is made available for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, and $10,000,000 for the following fiscal year.

The Federal highway act in a general way resembles the Federal-Aid Act of 1916, but contains several new features. Administration of the act by the Secretary of Agriculture, and under him the Bureau of Public Roads, remains unchanged.

Apportionment of the fund to the states is almost the same as in the previous act, the fund being divided into three parts, one part apportioned according to population, one according to area, and one part according to mileage of rural and star mail routes.

A new feature is the stipulation that no state shall receive less than one-half of one per cent of the total fund which, in this case, amounts to $365,625.

This stipulation will increase the amount received by four of the smaller states, i. e., Delaware, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, and Vermont.

There is considerable change, however, in the manner in which a state may use its allotment. Each state must select a connected road system not exceeding 7 per cent. of its road mileage for improvement with Federal aid. This system will be divided into two classes, one of which will be known as interstate highways and the other as intercounty highways. The interstate highways must not exceed three-sevenths of the system selected; on them not more than 60 per cent. of the state's allotment can be spent without the joint approval of the Secretary of Agriculture and the State Highway department. The intercounty highways, which consist of the remainder of the system selected, will receive the remainder of the state's allotment.

Except in states where more than 5 per cent. of the area is unappropriated public land, the amount of Federal aid received on any project must not exceed 50 per cent. of the estimated cost.

In states where more than 5 per cent. of the area is unappropriated public land the 50 per cent allotment is increased by an amount equal to one-half the percentage of unappropriated public land in the state. Before any funds can be paid to a state, the state must appropriate money, under the direct control of the state highway department, to match the Federal allotment, and for the maintenance of Federal aid highways.

All highways in the interstate system must have a surfaced width of at least 18 feet, unless so narrower width is deemed permissible by the Secretary of Agriculture. In case a Federal-aid highway is not properly maintained by a state, the state will be given 90 days notice by the department; at the end of that time if the highway is not in good condition of maintenance the Secretary of Agriculture will maintain it out of the state's allotment and refuse to approve any new projects until reimbursement is made by the state.

What the new appropriation will mean to the country can be judged by the use to which the $275,000,000 previously appropriated has been put, according to officials of the United States Department of Agriculture.

Practically $200,000,000 of that money has been put to work in projects which are either entirely completed or now under construction. The exact amount was $199,823,427 on October 31. To this must this amount the states have appropriated $265,352,517,

The roads to be paid for by this money, if placed end to end, would encircle the earth and extend from New York to San Francisco on the second lap, the total mileage of the roads under construction and completed being reported by the Bureau of Public Roads as 27,000 miles on October 31. Of this mileage 9,555 miles is in projects which are entirely completed and the contractors discharged.

The balance of 17,445 miles is in projects which are still under construction, which which were 65 per cent.

complete on October 31. In these projects there is therefore the equivalent of 12,000 miles of completed road, so that the completed road to date totals over 21,000 miles.

The average cost per mile of the roads built with Federal aid has been between $17,000 and $18,000. More than half the money has been spent for roads with the highest types of surface, such as concrete, brick, and luminous concrete, but a very large mileage of roads of the cheaper type, such as gravel and sand-clay, have been built where such types would withstand the wear of the traffic.

Prior to five years ago the Federal Government took no active part in the road construction of the country. Today about one-half of all the roads that are being built are being aided by the Government financially, and the construction is subject to the inspection and approval of federal engineers.

It is estimated by engineers of the United States Department of Agriculture that the Federal aid roads under construction October 31 were giving employment to about 250,000 men, either directly on the actual road construction or indirectly in the production and transportation of the materials which enter into the construction.

The new act, just signed, will, it is stated, keep these men at work, so far as weather conditions will permit, and thereby prevent the unemployment situation from becoming more serious.

Without the new appropriation many of the state would soon have been forced to curtail their work for lack of funds.

Ben P. Fleming, country Constable,

228 Limestone Street, Maysville, says:

"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills for and on for several years when I have needed them. I always get Doan's at Wood & Son's drug store. I have been greatly benefited by them. At times my kidneys get out of order and I suffer with a dull constant ache through the small of my back and the kidney secretions are irregular. In passage. A box or so of Doan's have never failed to relieve the trouble in a short time."

The above statement was given November 14, 1916, and on November 22, 1920, Mr. Fleming added: "I am glad to renew the statement I gave for publication some years ago as the one Doan's Kidney Pills made for me is still permanent. I confirm my former statement in every detail as it was all true."

Price 40c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy — get Doan's Kidney Pills — the same that Mr. Fleming had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mrs. Buffalo, N. Y.

30 PER CENT. IS TOBACCO DECREASE SAYS CROP REPORT

Crop Report For the State of Kentucky Shows Considerable Decrease in Tobacco From 1920.

Kentucky's 1921 total production of tobacco of all types is estimated at 30 per cent. less than in 1920, and the state's corn crop this year 15 per cent. less than last year, in the November crop report issued recently at Louisville and Frankfort by H. F. Bryant, Kentucky statistician for the U. S. Bureau of Markets and Crop Estimates, in co-operation with State Commissioner of Agriculture W. C. Hanna. This year's total tobacco crop of all types in Kentucky is 325,250,000 pounds compared to 467,500,000 pounds last year. Both burley and dark types show a sharp decrease in acreage. The average yield per acre this year is 850 pounds compared to a ten-year average of 858 pounds per acre.

The state's corn crop this year is estimated at 85,325,000 bushels compared to 100,850,000 bushels last year, while this year's white potato crop is estimated at 3,860,000 bushels, or 38 per cent. less than the 6,425,000 bushels produced in this state in 1920. The other crops reported for Kentucky are: sweet potatoes, 1,800,000 bushels; Apples, 72,900 bushels; pears, 11,900 bushels; clover seed 34,000 bushels; and sorghum syrup 4,080,000 gallons. Last year Kentucky's production of these crops was: Sweet potatoes, 1,880,000 bushels; Apples, 5,780,000 bushels; pears, 308,000 bushels; clover seed 52,000 bushels, and sorghum syrup 4,845,000 gallons.

The decrease in tobacco production in Kentucky from 1920 is due chiefly to decreased acreage. Quality of tobacco in Kentucky is reported as 84 per cent. compared to 80 per cent. last year. The United States tobacco crop this season is estimated at 1,020,874,000 pounds, compared to 1,508,641,000 pounds last year, a decrease of about 32 per cent.

It is estimated that approximately 6 per cent. of Kentucky's acreage of corn was put into silos this season, the average yield per acre being only about 6 tons. Some farmers report corn as being chaffy and some also report damage due to molding in the shock. Only 74 per cent. of this year's crop in Kentucky is reported as being merchantable, compared to an average of 81 per cent. usually merchantable. Farmers also report 9 per cent. of last year's Kentucky corn crop still on farms. The average yield per acre this year in Kentucky is reported by farmers as 25.6 bushels per acre compared to 30.5 bushels per acre last year and a ten-year average of 27.3 bushels.

The report for Mason county shows the following conditions: Corn 33 bushels to the acre; potatoes 40 bushels to acre; tobacco 920 pounds to the acre, condition 79 per cent.

CARY—CECIL.

The following is from the Richmond (Va.) Times-Dispatch. The groom is the son of Dr. Itusell Cecil, former local pastor:

An interesting society event of yesterday was the marriage at 6 o'clock in the Second Presbyterian church of Miss Pattie Albert Cary, daughter of the late Thomas Archibald Cary and Mrs. Cary, to John Howe Cecil, son of Dr. and Mrs. Russell Cecil, also of Richmond. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Cecil, father of the groom and pastor of the Second Presbyterian church, in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of guests.

The bride entered the church with her brother, John Cary, who gave her in marriage. She wore her mother's quaint wedding dress of white satin and duchess lace, and her veil of lillies was fastened with orange blossoms. Her flowers were roses and lilies of the valley. Miss Sallie Campbell Cary was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a blue satin gown trimmed in silver lace and carried a nosegay of pink orchids. Dr. Russell Cecil, of New York City, was his brother's best man. The groomsmen included: James Cecil, T. Archibald Cary, Jr., James Cheek, Carlton McKenney, John White, John Barreto, Lucius Cary and Benjamin Bell, Jr. Little Betty Cary and James Cecil, Jr., held the ribbons.

Following the ceremony at the church a small reception for the party, two families and out-of-town guests was held at the home of the bride on West Franklin street. The house was arranged with lighted candles and autumn flowers, the same color scheme being used in the decorations at the church. Mr. and Mrs. Cecil left later Tuesday morning to attend the Grand Lodge sessions.
